Toad Flax

The Toad Flax situation in the MD of Wainwright seems to be well in hand, and many patches have been completely eradicated. New patches are still appearing though, but the most are only small. Most farmers are quite conscious of this menace to Agriculture in the West. When the patches are small and new, is the best time to eradicate them most economical. Sodium Chlorate weed chemical is available for this. The Sodium Chlorate not only destroys the top growth of the plants, but it sterilizes the top soil for a period up to five years. One of the most important features in using Sodium Chlorate is to treat the area about three feet on the outside of the patches in order to destroy the runners. Locating and treating the patches of Toad Flax during harvest and fall work until freeze-up is a very good practice.

At the July meeting of the Agricultural Service Board, a motion was passed, recommending the Municipal Council to pass a By-Law preventing the unnecessary burning of stubble in the future. This action was felt very worthy due to the urgent need to practice better soil conservation. We have noticed some farmers practice burning heavy stubble rather than try some means of working the straw into the land. An extra stroke with the tiller or discer will pay big dividends in the spring when the wind blows. A good example for the need for better soil conservation practice is the dust storms last spring. A permit will be required before the stubble can be burned, or for the setting of any fire within the boundaries of the MD of Wainwright No. 61.

Duties Of Citizenship

IN THE FALL AND EARLY WINTER municipal elections are held in many communities throughout the country, and these elections arouse varying amounts of interest, depending upon the candidates and issues involved. In many instances the concern of a large percentage of the voters regarding either the candidate or the issues is not great and often there is a small turnout at the polls. In some communities this situation has become so serious that Citizens' committees have been formed to try to awaken public interest in elections and to encourage people to exercise their franchise.

Do Not Wish To Take Office

This is one example of the attitude which may develop in regard to the duties of citizenship. There are few who do not at times criticize the government and persons holding public office, yet many who criticize would not undertake to hold a public office themselves, and do not vote when they are given this opportunity to express their opinions. If those who are not satisfied with conditions in their own community or in wider political fields would take an active part in bringing about a change, and at the same time, if those who are satisfied would express their views, and defend their principles, there would be a greater interest in public affairs, and a greater field from which to pick candidates for office. Canadians would not wish to give up any of the privileges of citizenship which they enjoy, but many of them do not take advantage of these privileges from year to year.

People Fought For Franchise

The need is recognized, not only in Canada, but in other democratic countries for a more positive attitude towards the duties of citizenship and for greater willingness on the part of the people to assume public responsibilities. Only a hundred years ago the people in England were fighting for votes for everyone, yet in the years since many have forgotten that voting is a right which had to be won, and which should be appreciated and preserved. Members of federal, provincial and municipal governments are all responsible to the voters, and evidence of public interest in elections and in the actions of representatives after they are elected would add greatly to the satisfaction of those holding public offices. The political freedom which we enjoy, and which had to be won for us in the past, should not be held lightly now.

ANGRY SUN GOD RAINS OUT DANCE

ANADARKO, Okla.—When officials of the American Indian Exposition planned a Sun Dance for this year, some elder tribal leaders cautioned against it.

They said the Sun God would be angered and cause rain—or worse—if the sacred ritual were performed. But the dance was scheduled for the opening performance of the week-long program and so much rain fell the performance was cancelled.

Odd Stories In The News

New Stamp To Honor Fur Trade

OTTAWA.—A new brown-colored 10-cent postage stamp, honoring Canada's fur trade, will be issued Oct. 2, Edouard Rinfret, postmaster general, announced.

The new issue, the same size as current 10-cent stamps, 1½ inches by one inch, was designed by National Film Board and Canadian Bank Note company artists.

It depicts an Indian woman hanging up beaver skins mounted on stretchers to dry. An Indian wigwag appears in the background.

Funny and Otherwise

"And what is the child's name?" asked the minister.

"Shirley," replied the father. "Shirley?" repeated the minister in surprise.

"Yes, sir—after the famous Shirley Temple."

"Yes, yes, of course," said the minister. "Let's see—who's the preacher there now?"

First Camper—I do all the cooking and baking for you fellows, and what do I get? Nothing! Second Camper—You're lucky. We get indigestion.

As the second sponged the badly-battered features of the would-be world champion, he murmured in tones of disgust: "It's all right, Bill. We've sent for a private detective."

"What do I want a detective for?" asked the fighter.

"He'll help you find the chap you've been trying to hit during the last five rounds."

As the man was twisting his radio dial, he felt a sudden sharp pain in his back.

"Oh," he cried, "I think I'm getting lumbago!"

"Why bother to listen?" asked his wife. "You won't be able to understand a word of it."

A depressed-looking fellow slouched into a restaurant. A waiter hustled up.

"What will you have, sir? Some cold shoulder?"

"No, thanks; I had that this morning."

"Well, then; tongue, sir?"

"No, thanks; I'll get that tonight."

'Some folks blame it on the eclipse of the moon. Others say it's the equinox. Whatever it be we hope this wind and rain will soon clear up and give us back the lovely harvest weather we've enjoyed so much the past weeks. The autumn foliage has been exceptionally beautiful this season but now it is being strewn all over the fields and roads. We hate to see the leaves fall in our climate where the trees are bare for eight months out of the year.
